EVS:

Feelings are like weather. Feeling sad could be a rainy day, anger could be a thunderstorm and happiness could be sunshine. Let's note our emotions this summer and make our emotion bubbles on an A4size paper. Mark them with a smiley for a good emotion, and with for a bad emotion. The emotion charts will be read out and shared with the peers after the reopening.

Example: Note 2-3 emotions per day.

The image shows two large blue circular bubbles. The left bubble contains the text: "1-5-23", "Helped mom in cleaning the dining table. She was happy.", and "My emotion : Happy" with a yellow smiley face emoji below. The right bubble contains the text: "1-5-23", "Fought with my brother over watching a cartoon.", and "My emotion: Anger, sad" with a yellow sad face emoji below. Several smaller blue circles are scattered around the main bubbles.

Doing Time:

Chikoo and her brother Monu are lazy and untidy. They keep their study and bedroom as shown here . Write a few lines about their rooms. What would you do to help them to clean their rooms.
